

Welcome from the Head of school

What can we do in an education that is worthy of the lives our children will live? Worthy of the world they will live in?

We can offer a school that speaks up rather than down to the intellects of children? We can offer a curriculum that is built from children's questions and wonderings about the world, built on our human and natural desire to create and do. We can develop educational practices that foster -- instead of hamper -- creativity and innovation. We can launch the inventors, artists, and builders of the future who will act confidently and bravely in the face of a new world?

Maxwell School believes fiercely in the undeniable capacity of its students, and the faculty who work alongside them, to unleash their powers of discovery, investigation, and creativity in order to produce students who are articulate, confident, responsible citizens of the world. It provides for a rich and unique range of integrated academic, social, and creative experiences, and it helps to nurture a fertile imagination, a keen intellect, a big heart and an insatiable passion for learning.

Maxwell School offers a strong British curriculum based bilingual education that fosters its students' talents through a tailor-made educational program that addresses both their strengths and individual needs. A small school with a small teacher/student ration helps to promote an environment that not only gives its students the ability to achieve academic excellence but also a strong set of values that together foster their self-confidence allowing them to reach their full potential.

On behalf of the students, faculty, administration and parents, I welcome you to the Maxwell School. I hope you will spend some time getting to know us and learning about the extraordinary educational experience we offer.

Looking forward to seeing you soon,

Linda Barbour, Founder and Head of School
